5-Million-Dollar Federal Fund for Roads in Arkansas

Senate Passes Bill Carrying Rep. John McClellan's Amendment

NO CASH SINCE 1937
McClellan, at Little Rock, Issues Statement on Measure

LITTLE ROCK.—The United States Senate passed Monday a $5,000,000 Bureau of Public Roads appropriation by Congressman John L. McClellan of Malvern providing for immediate release to Arkansas of federal aid highway funds for the 1938 and 1939 fiscal years totaling $3,184,650, without the necessity for matching state funds.

"My amendment provides that states already using all their highway revenue for highway purposes, such as bond retirement, payment of interest on highway obligations, and highway maintenance, shall be eligible to receive their apportioned share of 1938 and 1939 fiscal year road aid without matching it," Mr. McClellan said here Monday night.

"Before I attached the amendment to the bill, I ascertained from state Highway Department officials and officials of the United States Bureau of Federal Roads that Arkansas could qualify for unmatched funds under it," he said.

The Malvern congressman in Little Rock for a series of conferences with political friends on his campaign for the nomination for United States senator in the August Democratic primary election, is a member of the house committee on roads.

Of the $5,184,650 which Mr. McClellan said "can be made available immediately, upon a proper showing by the state as to present use of its highway revenue," $4,320,542 is in regular federal aid and $864,108 is for secondary or farm-to-market roads.

The state, under the McClellan amendment, is entitled to $2,187,752 in regular federal aid and $427,550 in farm-to-market road aid for the 1938 fiscal year ending next June 30 and $2,187,752 in regular federal aid and $427,550 in farm-to-market road aid for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939.

No Federal Funds Since 1937
Arkansas has received no regular federal road aid since July 1, 1937, because of its inability to match the federal fund on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

Governor Bailey had planned to use approximately $3,400,000 which the state hopes to obtain from the federal government for the recent freeing of its toll bridges, to match federal funds for highway construction.

"Now that it will not be necessary to use this reimbursement money to match federal aid funds for the 1938 and 1939 fiscal year, the state, if it desires, may obtain credit for it to be used in hatchery 1940 and 1941 fiscal year apportionments from the Bureau of Public Roads," Mr. McClellan said.

Three-Year Total of $10,000,000
Use of the money in this manner, the Sixth District congressman pointed out, will assure Arkansas of more than $10,000,000 in federal aid funds for new highway construction during the next three years.

"Regular federal aid which the state will receive under my amendment is sufficient in amount to finance construction of about 450 miles of so-called low cost type of bituminous surfacing on about 200 miles of higher type paving, all with necessary grading and structures," Mr. McClellan said.

"The $864,000 for farm-to-market roads must be applied generally upon roads not included in the state highway system. This should be sufficient to construct between 150 and 200 miles of secondary roads, dependent upon construction conditions. This amount of money is an average of $1,520 a county for each of the 75 counties.

Money which Arkansas will obtain in reimbursement for freeing toll bridges is applicable to regular federal aid funds only, hence it could not have been used to obtain farm-to-market road money from the federal government, the congressman explained.

Paid For Praying
TOWYN, Wales, (AP)—Pennies for paying prayers in church have been given to local children for the 129th year. The money comes from a legacy left by a former vicar, Youngsters who recite the Lord's Prayer receive two pence (four cents), those repeating the Ten Commandments get six pence (12 cents).

CRANIUM CRACKER
A man walks half-way from home to the postoffice, thinks he has forgotten his letters, and walks half-way from there toward home to get them. He discovers there that he has the letters with him, and walks half-way back to the postoffice from that point, where he is given a ride by a motorist. What part of the way from his home to the postoffice was he when he got the ride?

Answer on Classified Page

All the letters will bear the special "cachet" prepared by Hope Chamber of Commerce showing the map of Arkansas, the location of the City of Hope with the inscription "Home of the World's Largest Watermelons."

Several other firms of Hope are preparing letters for the special airmail flight, but on somewhat of a smaller scale.

Postmaster Robert Wilson said at noon Tuesday that approximately 3,000 letters—about half the quota of 6,000 assigned to Hope—had been received and were waiting the government plane which will arrive at the municipal airport at 12:50 p. m. Thursday.

A special program is being arranged for the occasion with the Hope Boys band to furnish music during brief ceremonies at the airport in which Mayor Albert Graves is expected to speak. The government plane, after a 30-minute stay here, will hop off at 1:20 p. m.

Postmaster Robert Wilson urged all persons sending airmail letters for the special flight to hand them to a post-office clerk before 10:30 a. m. Thursday with instructions to the clerk to "hold for special flight." This procedure will avoid a rush at the last minute.

In observance of National Airmail Week a special display has been placed in one of the show-windows of the Scott store in downtown Hope. The model airplanes are by Charles Crutshfield, Jr., senior high school student; the airmail covers from the collection of Rev. Thomas Brewster, and the posters are from the local postoffice department.

Motorcade En Route to Virginia Is Due Here Friday Morning

The annual motorcade of the Broadway of America Association through Arkansas on Friday, May 20, is announced by William McComb, managing director of the Arkansas Automobile Club, who has charge of the movement of the Broadway of America motorcade while in the state.

The motorcade, according to the announcement of Mr. McComb, starts from San Diego, Calif., and is increased by additional cars from the various cities in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, through which the motorcade passes on the route of the Broadway. The party will arrive at Texarkana on the evening of Thursday, May 23, where they will remain over night.

At 7:30 Friday morning, May 20, the motorcade will leave Texarkana over U. S. Highway 67 for Hope, Arkadelphia, Hot Springs, Little Rock, Brinkley, Forrest City and Memphis, where the party will remain Friday night. On Saturday the party goes to Knoxville, and from there, on Sunday, to Roanoke, Virginia, where the annual convention will be held. The motorcade will be escorted through Arkansas by state patrolmen on motorcycles and will be officially welcomed by Governor Carl E. Bailey at the state capital at 12:30 Friday.

Proceeding from the capital to the Marion hotel, luncheon will be tendered the party by the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce. Short stops will be made at Arkadelphia and Hot Springs on the way to Little Rock.

It is expected that a number of eastern and central Arkansas cars will go to Texarkana to meet the motorcade and accompany it through to Memphis. The Arkansas officers of the Broadway of America Association are: J. Gilbert Leigh, district vice president; Robert Jones of Hot Springs; Terrell Connelley of Hope; Judge C. F. Greenleaf of Brinkley, and W. A. McCartney of Texarkana, directors.

Potato Marketing Plan Is Winning

Would Prohibit Interstate Shipments Under U. S. No. 2 Grade

LITTLE ROCK.—Returns from 29 of the counties in Arkansas eligible to vote in the Irish potato marketing referendum Friday and Saturday showed that commercial potato growers favored a proposed marketing agreement and order to regulate handling of their crop by a vote of 964 to 49. R. C. Randall, assistant extension director, reported Monday.

The 904 affirmative votes represented 132,128 bushels produced from May 1, 1937, to May 1, 1938. The negative votes represented 15,100 bushels. Returns from remaining counties will be tabulated today, Mr. Randall said.

Similar elections were held in 12 other states. The proposed program would permit interstate shipment of potatoes of lower grade than U. S. No. 2 and of smaller size than 1.5 inches diameter, would permit other limitations on shipment of inferior qualities upon recommendation of local committees and would require federal-state inspection on interstate shipments.

The plan would become effective if two-thirds of the producers favor it. Returns from the referendum by counties included:

| County              | Yes | No |
|---------------------|-----|----|
| Hempstead           | 26  | 2  |

Livestock Show Is Supported in Hope Meeting Monday

25% of Arkansas Farms Have No Cows for Milk Purposes

HEMPSTEAD SHORT
1,440 of County's 5,000 Farms Have no Milk Production

"There are 10 million idle acres in Arkansas, and with the prospect that our world cotton market is permanently lost it is time we gave serious study to livestock as a second cash income for the farm," W. Kendall Lenley, district chairman, told a public meeting of the Hempstead county livestock committee Monday night in Hope city hall.

Attended by about 25 men, including several dirt farmers, the meeting was designed to inspire local interest in the Arkansas Livestock Show, which will be inaugurated at Little Rock this year. Headed by Col. T. H. Burton, Lion Oil Refining company president, El Dorado, the Livestock Show organization is proceeding in every county of the state.

Bates Presides
The Hempstead county chairman, M. S. Bates, presided at Monday night's meeting, introducing as speakers: District Chairman Lenley; A. P. Boles, assistant general livestock agent of the Missouri Pacific; County Agent Clifford Smith; Lee Garland, president of Hempstead County Fair association; Herman Stoy; Carl Coffee, A. H. Washburn.

Mr. Boles, for the railroad, said that Arkansas' total livestock production last year was so low it would have to be increased phenomenally to have any effect on the national level of livestock prices. Arkansas production last year was worth 26 million dollars, he said; against 196 millions for Missouri, 86 millions for Oklahoma, and 100 millions for Kansas.

A state livestock show was worth while, he said, if only for the interest it would arouse in better livestock selection and modern methods of feeding.

County Agent Smith told the group that there are 16,000 Arkansas farms that have no chickens, 65,000 farms (25% of all the farms in the state) that have no cows for milking purposes, and 97,000 farms that have no hogs.

1,440 of 5,000
In Hempstead county, he said, out of a total of 5,000 farms, there are 800 that have no chickens, 1,440 that have no milk cows, and 2,170 that have no hogs.

Lee Garland expressed a word of caution. He said there was a legitimate doubt as to whether a people trained chiefly in the production of cotton and corn were prepared to manage livestock at once.

"Livestock raising is a lot of trouble, and we may be a generation buckling down to that job," he said.

"Credit is important too. At present there are too many credit sources who ask the farmer, 'But how much cotton and corn are you going to plant?'"

Nazi Tide Is Threatening to Take Other European Nations

Austrian Seizure Gives Nazis Base in Fertile Danube

Dictators "Grant Each Other What Neither of Them Owns"

FREE RAIDING HAND
Yugoslavia, Rumania Fear They'll Become Hitler Satellites

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON—Now that the Roman love-feast is over and the Fascist headmen of Europe have separated to go about the serious business of re-making Europe and the rest of the world in accordance with the new agreement they apparently made between them, a number of the Continent's smaller countries are developing the jitters and bad cases of Nazi spots before the eyes—the spots being these localities where Hitler may decide to strike next.

For there can be little doubt that Hitler and Mussolini mutually agreed to grant each other what neither owned. The Mediterranean, it is reported, was once more converted into a Roman "lake" by consent of Adolf Hitler, who gave Mussolini an exclusive sphere of influence in that region. In return, Mussolini—again according to report—guaranteed that Hitler would have an exclusive sphere of influence in Central Europe.

"Sphere of influence" is diplomat's jargon for an area where economic and political control is something often followed by outright conquest.

As a result, several small Central European countries which contemplated the absorption of Austria with complacence, are themselves fidgeting.

Yugoslavia and Rumania are two Balkan countries which are wondering just to what extent they will become enforced economic satellites of Germany.

An independent Austria used to be a buffer between Germany and Yugoslavia. Austria's control of her part of the river Danube acted as a buffer for Rumania.

But today, by incorporating the Austrian commercial fleet on the Danube with the German, Germany has by far the biggest set of ships plying the 1800-mile river. Furthermore, the Nazis have announced they are going to have a fleet of light war vessels on the Danube. That will make them masters of the river, clear down to the Black Sea. German gunboats could threaten Budapest in Hungary, Belgrade in Yugoslavia and various river towns in Bulgaria and Rumania.

The Nazi press has been full of stories of Yugoslav riches, which could be useful to Germany, now that they are neighbors. They stress that Yugoslavia has the biggest copper mine in Europe and there are great fields of iron ore, manganese, chromium, bauxite, lead and zinc.

With Hitler as their new neighbor, Hungarians are now of two minds. If the Nazis crush Czechoslovakia, many would not care, provided Hungary were allowed to be one of the vultures to feast on the carcass.

Their idea of a fair deal would be for Hitler to acquire all those parts of Ancient Bohemia and Moravia inhabited by 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans. But they would themselves like to get back Slovakia, which was lost through

Mrs. Chas. Irwin has received a notification from the Post Office Department stating that she had been appointed to serve as postmistress of the Ozan post office.

The civil service examination given for the vacancy was taken by a number of applicants in March, but no permanent appointment had been made until Thursday.

Geared for Nazi revolutions in other Central European lands, the German swastika casts its shadow over Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Lithuania—all within the German "sphere of influence" which is reported to have been unofficially mapped out during the Hitler-Mussolini conversations in Rome.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, proposed legislation Tuesday to return the administration of all relief activities to the states under a system of federal grants-in-aid.

Liberals Illiberal Toward Others, Alf Landon Declares

CHICAGO (AP)—Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, asserted in a prepared speech Tuesday: "None of us, of this generation, has seen a group so intolerant of the views and beliefs of others as are the so-called New Deal Liberals."

"Only a few weeks ago," he told the Inland Daily Press association, "Senator Minton, Indiana Independent, introduced a measure which is a dire threat to the press. Mr. Minton, it seems, would set up a censorship of newspapers and other publications."

"The press, operating under such laws, would cease to be free."

Minton Withdraws Bill
Following the furor over Minton's "investigation" of Rural Progress, a Midwestern magazine, the senator decided to withdraw his bill which would have provided for the prosecution of newspapers and magazines printing "propaganda." Minton was unanimously denounced by the press, both administration and anti-administration, on the ground that his bill would permit government leaders to prosecute anyone who criticized them—"propaganda" being an undefinable word.

Violent Pressures, Violent Solutions

IT IS not so very long since earnest Americans were busy worrying about the spread of Nazi propaganda in South America.

Brazil had what looked very much like a Hitler-model government. Other large South American nations were slipping farther and farther away from democracy. German short-wave radio broadcasts were drenching the continent with propaganda. Minority European groups were organizing and preparing to demand their "rights," and altogether it looked as if the Monroe Doctrine was being destroyed by a process of infiltration.

But there seems to have been a serious hitch somewhere.
Brazil's government turns out to be pretty stoutly anti-Hitler.
The radio propaganda is failing to have its expected effect.
Different governments are cracking down on the minority groups. German-language schools have been closed and foreign political agitation has been curbed, even though large German and Italian language groups do remain devoted to the cause of the "leaders" back home.

SOUTH AMERICA, in other words, is not proving a very fertile field for the planting of Nazi seeds. When the dust finally settles things will probably be just about as they were before the fuss started. The continent's democracy will still be imperfect, of course, but it will not be perverted by the importation of some European ideology.

Which suggests that perhaps this whole business of Nazism, or Fascism, is after all a European growth, which needs the peculiar conditions of Europe in order to thrive.

HEAVEN knows that the world as a whole has a great number of problems to solve. But nowhere are these problems as pressing as they are in Europe. Nowhere else do they exert such unendurable pressures on the common people.

For in Europe they are all intensified by the density of the population, by the intensity of nationalistic sentiments, by the wreckage left by the World war, by the intricate web of suspicion, jealousy, fear and hatred that has been built up over many generations. They drive people to seek bizarre and violent solutions. They create an atmosphere in which reason and the spirit of friendly co-operation are crippled.

And this whole Nazi-Fascist business, apparently, can grow only under such conditions. It is not what its leaders boast and its enemies fear—a new world-movement that must inevitably grow and spread. Transplant it and it withers. It cannot take root in the Americas.

Not—and here is the warning to keep in mind—not unless the people of the Americas, by their own folly, erect on their continents the same set of pressures that are driving Europe to ruin and war.

Take a Card

THERE'S a great deal in the idea of Sid Glotter of Minneapolis. He came into possession of a shiner a while ago, and one of the first things he did was to have some cards printed with an explanation on them. He carried them in his pocket, and believed that by simply handing them around to his friends he effected an appreciable increase in the life expectancy of his vocal cords.

There is a definite place in the daily life of every talk-weary man for Sid's idea. If all the conversational non-essentials in the world were laid end to end it would certainly be a humiliating sight to look upon. Cards, Sid has shown, are the answer. Or, rather, the answers are in the cards.

Think how much easier life with a collection of cards like these would be:

"It always looks like this when I wash it."

Or:

"You dope, a man's bound to put on a little weight as the years go by."

Pork Must Be Properly Cooked

Physicians everywhere are beginning to see increasing number of cases of people who have developed trichinosis after eating pork.

Recently an outbreak occurred in Vermont in which 84 people were attacked by this condition. The doctors first realized that there was an outbreak when a soldier came in an army camp suffering with headache, chills, and a general feeling of illness. It was observed that his eyes were swollen and painful, that he had a sore throat, and that he also had stiffness in his muscles. His fever gradually became higher, until eventually it reached 103.2 degrees. An examination of the blood revealed the presence of a greatly increased number of white blood cells with an especially large increase of one variety known as eosinophiles.
Within a period of a week, several more patients were found with this condition.

The doctors then began making a careful study of the diets of these patients for a period of two weeks previous to the time when the first patient appeared. It was found that many of them had eaten sausages for breakfast, salt pork at supper, bacon at breakfast, pork chops for supper, or roast loin of pork for dinner at various times.

Notwithstanding the fact that all of the meat had been inspected by a veterinary officer and by the Bureau of Animal Industry, it was obvious that all of the people infected who were in the army camp had at some time eaten infected pork.

The one meal at which every one who had been infected was present was an evening meal at which roast loin of pork was served. Many of the patients said that this pork had not been well cooked at the center.

Obviously official meat inspection is not always sufficient to eliminate the possibility of infection with trichinae.
Repeatedly I have pointed out in these columns that pork, lamb chops, barbecues and similar meats frequently purchased from roadside stands are undercooked and that this increases the possibility of infection with trichinae.

Properly cooked pork is as safe as food as any that one would wish to eat.
It would not be wise to alarm people so that they would refuse to eat pork. Nevertheless it is important to emphasize the fact that pork in general is not safe to eat until it has been suitably cooked with plenty of heat.

At the same time we should begin a campaign of education as to the feeling of some. Swine which are fed on

"Sunny Jim" Becomes a "Gloomy Gus" by Self-Pity.

(No. 92)
So popular has become the belief that childhood is a happy time, the happiest of life, it is hard to make parents believe otherwise. Yet it is cases of trichinosis, it will prove far more costly than feeding with suitable material free from the possibility of infection.

It is nothing to seem or to feel. It is simply there, a weed that most of us grow in our mental gardens, and we cannot blame the child for something we hug to our own hearts with pride and defiance.

The one thing that most humans desire is their right to feel sorry for themselves when their real world does not come up to their dream world in expectation. Or even if one day's plans go haywire and the substitute falls short.

We call such people "emotionally immature." Which means that they are being childish. Which also means that children have more right to pity themselves than their elders have.

I doubt whether much can be done

Some parents have only to look back to their own youth to find a parallel in unhappiness. But others, born to throw off trouble and take defeat in their stride, won't be so sympathetic.
Self pity is the leader of the seven devils that wreck human happiness.

At the Rialto

A story of young love strong enough to win out over a notorious past comes Wednesday and Thursday to the Rialto Theater in "Stolen Heaven," Paramount's romantic drama which stars Olympie Bradna and Gene Raymond.

Olympie, who is hailed as "the first star of 1938," heads the cast in the role of a misled young jewel-thief who, with her lover, Raymond, tries to build a completely new life in a country hideaway until her past indiscretions catch up with her and threaten her reputation and her happiness.

Olympie Bradna is the 17-year-old French actress who caused such a sensation after George Raft discovered her and got her a part in "Souls at Sea." Since then she has played in "Last Train from Madrid" and "College Holiday" but "Stolen Heaven" marks the first production in which she has been starred.

The distinguished Lewis Stone has an important part as an aged pianist who befriends the young lovers when all the world seems to turn against them and who prevents them from running their lives with a single mistake.

Glenda Farrell, the blonde who wisecracked her way through "Gild Diggers of 1937," and Porter Hall, who shot the hero in "The Plainsman" and wrecked banks in "Wells Fargo," play the young couple's daring confederates.

At the Saenger

Edgar Bergen is a clever chap. Even Charlie McCarthy will sometimes admit that.

About the best he will say, however, is that when Bergen created him he showed a flash of real intelligence.

They have gone a long way together from second-rate vaudeville to the big time from vaudeville to the swank night clubs, from the night clubs to radio and from radio to motion pictures. Featured today in Samuel Goldwyn's Technicolor musical, "The Goldwyn Follies," which comes to the Saenger theater Thursday, they're sitting on top of the world, the most unique team in all entertainment history.

Bergen, as every one knows, is a ventriloquist extraordinaire. Charlie is his extraordinary dummy.

They've been together for 17 years, since Bergen had Charlie carved into a weird semblance of impudent life in a Chicago carpenter shop. During these years, Charlie has become a very real person, not only to the millions he has helped Bergen entertain, but to Bergen himself.

Bergen was born in Chicago, the son of Swedish parents.

Bergen says that he "just stumbled" onto ventriloquism. When he was a youngster of about 13 he discovered he had a voice with which he could do strange tricks.

He got the idea for Charlie McCarthy from an Irish newsboy who had a stand near his school. The boy's name was Charlie. The name of the word carver who created the dummy's head from Bergen's sketches and explicit directions was Mack. Bergen gave it an Irish twist and called his dummy Charlie McCarthy.

He paid $35 for Charlie's head and made the body himself. He has since spent hundreds of dollars trying to get duplicate heads to serve as doubles—and since the movies, stand-ins—but has never been satisfied. He still works with the original Charlie McCarthy.

End Term on May 13

The Ozan Public school closed Friday, May 13. The closing program was presented Thursday night, at the school building.

The program consisted of reading, songs, and playlets by the primary room, a play "The Jet Club," by the intermediate group, and a play "No Girls Allowed," by the seventh and eighth grades.

The large auditorium was filled with many visitors from the surrounding communities and with the patrons of the school.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

In your springtime pictures, use blossoms and flowers to help get the "feel" of the season.

In taking outdoor pictures of people, are you careful to get the "feel of the season" into each picture, by proper selection of background and surroundings?

An outdoor picture without such "feel" is like a stage without scenery—or, worse, with the wrong scenery. For instance, some of us will take a springtime shot of a child in the yard, with the garage or back steps as a background—when the child could just as easily have been pictured kneeling beside a row of jonquills, bending over and sniffing one. In the latter case, how much more pleasing, and meaningful, the picture would be!

In your Maytime pictures, why not associate people with blossoms and the early flowers? In summer pic-

Cardenas' Position in Mexico Shaky

Rioting Among University Students Tells of National Unrest

MEXICO CITY.—(A)—Six persons were wounded seriously Monday in clashes at the University of Mexico, where Rightist and Leftist groups battled with pistols for possession of four buildings. Several hundred armed members of "Socialist Youth" groups before dawn seized possession of the main university building, the preparatory school and the schools of commerce and law. They defied efforts of police and firemen to eject them. Angry student groups attacked the buildings several times, but at first were beaten back by the Socialists, who fired from rooftops, wounding several.

Finally, at noon, the students regained control of the buildings, entering by roof-top from adjoining buildings. The Socialist youths, surrendering, obtained assurances they would not be molested, and they left peacefully.

Six persons were treated at hospitals, including a three-year-old girl struck by a stone. The others were students, four with gun wounds and one beaten. Monday's disorder capped long attempts by Socialists to deprive the university of autonomy guaranteed it by law and to bring it into the federal system, introducing Socialist education.

Rumors that President Lazaro Cardenas might be forced to resign because of domestic and international difficulties over the March 18 exportation of foreign oil properties became so persistent that Gov. Maximino Avila Camacho, of the state of Puebla, felt impelled to deny he was taking over the presidency.

The rumors arose from the president's late night visit to Puebla Friday, when he conferred for two hours with the governor and his brother, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, minister of national defense.

Tension continued in the state of San Luis Potosi where friends of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, agrarian leader and foe of Cardenas, charged the president was trying to "drive him to rebellion" to distract public attention from presidential troubles.

U. S. Radio Station Proposal Attacked

Private Broadcasters Would Tend South American Service

WASHINGTON.—(A)—Any proposal to put the government in control of news-disseminating channels is at odds with Democratic principles and "folds the pattern of authoritarian states," Mark Ethridge, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said Monday.

He spoke before the house naval committee in opposition to a proposal by Representative Celler (Dem., N. Y.) that the government build a radio station for broadcasts to South America.

Ethridge voiced numerous objections. Although he announced purpose of the project is to offset propaganda being broadcast to South America from Europe, he said, it might only arouse resentment among Latin Americans.

The government should encourage private interests whose international broadcasts have been well received in South America, he said. Declaring there had been a remarkable trend in the improvement of private facilities during the past year, Ethridge said: "Whether this trend will continue or be retarded or even whether private enterprise will entirely abandon the field depends largely upon your decision."

Any proposal to put the government in control of media for the dissemination of news or information, he continued, "suggests the Nazi philosophy which seeks to fuse the people with a common thought, with common aims and ultimately obtains complete submission to the thinking of a small group."

Representative Celler told the committee that "the bill would be intended to counteract programs from Rome and Berlin. The station could be used to promote good will, eliminate misunderstanding and promote trade. I don't think private companies can do the job."

Celler contended the station would not lead to a government monopoly in radio.

"Every nation has a government radio station except the United States," he said.

"Well, dear," said Mr. Blunt, after tea had been cleared away, "what are you planning to do tonight?"

"Nothing special," she replied. "I'll probably write a letter or two, read, listen to the radio, and so on."

"I see," he replied. "When you come to the so on, don't forget my shirt buttons."

Austrian Seizure

The 1919 peace treaties. Anti-Nazi Hungarians have something to worry about, however. It is not so much that they fear Hitler will march in and occupy their territory as he did Austria. But they fear economic pressure and also the danger of a Nazi regime in Hungary which would align itself with the Nazi regime in Germany. In other words, an "anschluss" of ideologies and policies rather than of territory.

Lithuania—a Baltic state with a population of 2,500,000 and an area slightly less than West Virginia—is in the position often classically described as "between the devil and the deep blue sea." In other words, between Germany and Poland.

Only a couple of months ago Poland made political and economic demands upon Lithuania and threatened war if she did not accede. Lithuania yielded.

The March ultimatum of the Poles was designed to put an end to this. Lithuania was not in a position to resist a militarily powerful nation of 34,000,000. At the eleventh hour, Lithuania yielded.

The Germans too have grievances against Lithuania.

In 1934 Memel Nazis were arrested by the Lithuanian authorities, charged with plotting to seize the territory. Several Nazis received death sentences and others long terms of imprisonment. Nazi Germany raged until the Lithuanian authorities commuted the death sentences and reduced the other penalties. This came about in 1936, but the sore still rankles. Today the Lithuanians do not know whether to fear most a German or a Polish grab at Memel, their only possible seaport.

Mrs. Karpis Grilled for Harboring "Public Enemy No. 1"

LITTLE ROCK.—There were indications Monday that the federal grand jury is considering a long-predicted charge against Mrs. Alvin Karpis, the former Mrs. Grace Goldstein, in connection with the hideout visit to Hot Springs by the one-time "Public Enemy No. 1" two years ago.

Several girls who were said to be friends of Mrs. Karpis while the gangster was hiding out in a big two-story frame house on Lake Catherine appeared before the grand jury Monday afternoon after they had waited since early morning to be called.

In his instruction to the jury Monday morning, Judge Trimble mentioned harboring of criminals as being among those cases which grand juries were called upon to consider. He said it is a violation of the law for a person to harbor a known criminal regardless of the relation of the person harbored.

Russia Builds to the Sky

CHAOS ruled the Russia of the revolutionary days, and the triumphant workers, marching on the landed estates of Moscow and other cities, took over the fine homes and beautiful public buildings in one mighty surge.

Ten years later, about 1928, the first readjustment was beginning and the new Russia laid plans for a huge building program of her own. The fruits of that program are now apparent.

They show in a cut-to-the-bone modernist pattern of architecture, notable for its fitness rather than its beauty. It boasts a certain freedom from the old traditions, the ancient embellished forms. It symbolizes the new Russia.

So the Russians are building these days, literally, to the skies. Typical work is the vast projected Palace of the Soviets, with 120 elevators and 60 escalators, designed to be the tallest building in the world and to seat 20,000 in the main hall. And like many of these buildings it will support a chromium statue of the revered Lenin at the very top. One of the proposed Russian skyscrapers is shown here on a current Russian stamp, one of a series on the new architecture.

Today's Answer to CRANIUM CRACKER

Question on Page One

He was 5-8th of the way to the postoffice. Speaking of the distance in 8th, he goes 4-8ths, then comes back 2-8th, when he is 2-8th from home. The whole distance from home to postoffice, 8-8ths, less this 2-8th, is 6-8th from the man to the postoffice. Half of this is 3-8th. As he was already 2-8th on his way from home, he would be 2-8th plus 3-8th—or 5-8th—of the distance from the home to the postoffice when he got the ride.

Photo Shows Seabiscuit "Waitin' the Day"

By PAUL ROSS
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—Chunky, bespectacled, friendly Tom Smith sat on a box talking about Seabiscuit.

Into Barn No. 38 strolled a couple of nobodies in short sleeves, average boys like you and me.

"May we take a look at Seabiscuit?" asked one.

"Go ahead," answered Trainer Smith. "He's over there."

Seabiscuit, of course, is in residence at Belmont Park, awaiting his $100,000 match race with War Admiral, May 30. The biggest purse ever offered for such an event is involved, as well as tons of prestige. Nevertheless, anybody can see the son of Hard Tack, anybody can ask questions about him, anybody will receive an answer.

In Barn No. 38 you get the feeling that the Biscuit is a good horse, a fine horse, an excellent horse—but not a porcelain prima-donna who might splinter under a non-too-gentle glance.

You soon get the idea that he's entitled to respect and care—and gets that, too. Should you ask, Smith will tell you, "If a fellow didn't like a horse like that, he wouldn't be much of a horse-lover." But nobody holds the beast in reverence, nobody hovers over him apprehensively. The sprightly spring breezes were allowed to play unhampered over his valuable pelt that afternoon, for example.

Seabiscuit Is Plain Working Man

In another barn not far away, a War Admiral stood wrapped in a blanket and a bit more of that atmosphere of awe which surrounds the world's great.

Seabiscuit is a fellow who works for a living... one who is there to produce. He's a business, not a minor deity. Smith has never had so much as a two-spot on the Biscuit, even where the pony was a cinch to win. "If other people saw me bet on Biscuit, they would," says Smith. "It would bring down his price. I want to see him with as big a price as possible."

Biscuit's day is like the day of any other high-grade pony. The going at about 4:30 in the morning, then breakfast consisting of oats with hay for dessert, then a rest. Stall cleaned and straw bed made over, 5 a. m. Groomed, combed, rubbed-down by Groom Will Allison. At 8, the morning workout, consisting of a job around the track and an occasional breeze for a third of a mile or so, usually with exercise boy. Then back to the stable eld in a blanket, and a leisurely half-hour saunter around the paddock to let the air carry off a fellow's perspiration.

Next, a sponging-off with warm water, another rub-down and a brushing-up with the groom's "corn" brush.

HERE 'TIS, JOE

It's the same right hand that put the skids under Joe Louis two years ago. Max Schmeling smiles and unlimbers his most deadly weapon for all to see, upon his arrival in the United States. Louis wasn't there to greet him, but he knows all about that right. They meet for the second time at Yankee Stadium, June 22.

boss says another saunter around the paddock is in order. So around and around for another half hour, then back to the stall. At 11 or so, comes midday chow—more oats, more hay, in fact enough to munch on the whole afternoon while thinking equine thoughts. Five o'clock brings the last meal of the day. Then comes shut-eye.

With rigid, unostentatious care, Smith watches the health, weight, diet of the C. S. Howard ponies, among who the counts Seabiscuit as just one of the boys. Most trainers include carrots in the diet, but Smith doesn't go into his way to use them. Most trainers put clover into a beast's diet but Smith says nothing doing here—clover cuts down wind like nothing else. Smith doesn't like his ponies to eat apples and he draws the line on sugar for a utilitarian reason—the horses get to pester for it. So the Biscuit does without sugar and probably takes it quite philosophically.

In 1936, he was sold for $8000, chiefly because he hadn't shown very much until then. In new hands, Seabiscuit has garnered a mere $239,785 in prize money.

Howard Horse Everybody's Sweetheart

Seabiscuit is like any other lunk-head who, when given encouragement and the right handling, blossoms into the firm's star salesman. He knows he's good, too, but he hasn't forgotten his proletarian days when he was next to nobody. Step up to his stall to look him over and he comes forward to look you over. Whisper sweet nothings to him and he perks up his ears like a co-ed on a summer night.

Remembering that he came up from the ranks, he has become friends with a palomino pony, named "Punkin." They're together constantly. The Biscuit won't follow any other horse out to the track. He won't ride a train with any other horse. They pucker together, and enjoy themselves. Just to tease, the Biscuit takes a nip out of the other guy now and then.

The Biscuit stands 15 hands, two inches high, weighs 1040 pounds when training, 1030 when racing. His coat is bay, his mane shaggy, and he wears a little bang over his forehead like Claudette Colbert.

Seabiscuit is the cameraman's sweetheart. Flashlight bulbs exploding all over the place arouse his curiosity instead of his hooves. He's a regular little acrobat, too. Seem to know that facing the lens is part of the job of being a champion pony.

After talking with and about Seabiscuit, you go away agreeing with Trainer Smith. If you don't like a horse like that you wouldn't be much of a horse-lover. You wouldn't like much of anything else, for that matter.

Rookie Traveler Beats Lookouts

Woodrow Rich Hurlers 4-Hit Ball to Shutout Chattanooga

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Woodrow Rich, rookie right-hander making his first start of the season, held Chattanooga to four singles, one of them a bunt, to give Little Rock a 4-0 win in the series opener Monday night.

Rich previously had won two games in relief roles and had been charged with one defeat. He has allowed only two runs in 24 innings of pitching.

He was given sensational support Monday night, his only trouble coming in the sixth when three consecutive walks filled the bases. A double play retired the side without damage.

All of Little Rock's runs came in the second off four hits, a base on balls and two errors. Then Travelers went to bat that inning, knocking Bill Weinert out of the box.

Ozan Baseball Team Wins Over Rattlers

Defeating the Murfreesboro Rattlers by a score of 8 to 3, the Ozan Aces opened the season Sunday afternoon, on the Ozan diamond.

The effective pitching of Charles Stuart was an interesting feature of the game. Stuart allowed only six hits while he was striking out 14 men.

A large number of spectators gathered to see the Aces win their first game of the season.

The village fire engine was careening toward a small hamlet.

Suddenly a hefty housewife left a group of her cronies and, dashing into the middle of the road, waved her arms frantically in front of the oncoming engine. The driver pulled up with a jerk.

"Where's the fire?" he shouted. "Well, that takes the cake," retorted the woman. "That's what we all want to know!"

The Payoff

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

Bill Terry is a devoted disciple of the late Texas Guinan's—or is it W. C. Fields'—colorful philosophy. "Never give a sucker an even break."

Having made a messenger boy of everybody in the New York Giants' organization, Terry now is extending his arrogant hand to other National League outfits and parks.

The Chicago Cubs, having permitted Chilly Willie to take pennants away from them in 1936 and '37, not only let his Polo Grounders sweep the clubs' first 1938 series, but allowed the Cheerless Leader to take charge of their playing field.

They permitted Terry to run the games and Wrigley Field with equal freedom. He countermanded park rules and canceled the sideline customs, with home officials exhibiting a meekness only equaled by the politeness their athletes showed in submitting to trappings.

The Bruins appear used to it now. Old Poosh "Em Up Lazzeri" has helped, but his hitting in the clean-up spot is the tipoff on the north side outfit, whose pitchers lack staying qualities, too.

Terry Runs the Works
One of the oldest Cub customs is to allow photographers to shoot from spaces in foul territory, well back of first and third bases. Before the last game of the Giant-Cub series, Charley Grimm, manager of Wrigley's, and Charles Drake, one of their many officials, extended the lens lads the same permission.

However, when the Cubs came to bat in the first inning, the emperious Terry ordered the photographers away from their right field post. He had not objected to their presence while the Giants were batting, but now grew irate, especially when they answered that they were acting with Grimm's permission, and that the home crew made the park rules.

Grimm met with Umpires Reardon and Pinelli, and the latter returned to his first base station to tell the cameramen, "Stay where you are." But not even an umpire gets away with anything in a league which Terry has adopted as his own. When Stanley Hack, the Cubs' third baseman, stepped into the batter's box, Terry sprang Terrible Terry to yell: "Hack you get out of that batter's box. If these photographers leave here."

Cubs Used to Obeying
Hack obeyed. The Cubs are used to obeying, and, moreover, Umpire Pinelli thereupon reversed his decision, and obliged the photographers to obey the New York manager, too.

Protests from the photographer brought nothing but regrets from Grimm and Drake, and the assurance that they certainly had not exceeded their rights. But the great Terry didn't want it that way, and that was all there was to it.

Even Commissioner Landis swam into line, with "Maybe he thinks he's in New York," the reference being to Terry's rules against cameramen, at the Polo Grounds. I suspect that Landis wouldn't be surprised if Terry started to run his office next.

Anyway, the Wrigley Field incident closed with the photographers huddling on the Cubs' side of the field and with the Cub officials and umpires as meek as mice. All hands, so of sought protection against the heavy hand of Terrible Terry.

It's really too bad for the National League that Bill Terry can't outdo Joe McCarthy and the Yankees in doing the opposition and umpires of the older loop.

Pels Obtain Russell

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Manager Larry Gilbert of the New Orleans Pelicans announced he had obtained infielder Lloyd Russell from the Cleveland Indians on option.

Russell, a former Baylor University star, played shortstop for Knoxville in the Southern Association last year.

It's really too bad for the National League that Bill Terry can't outdo Joe McCarthy and the Yankees in doing the opposition and umpires of the older loop.

Slick Tires Real Threat to Safety

National Tire Safety Week Is Celebrated May 14 to 21

CHICAGO, Ill.—Tires that have been used until the tread has worn smooth, increase the hazard of driving because they increase the tendency to skid on a slippery pavement.

"My Skin Was Full of Pimples and Blemishes from Constipation"

says Verna Schleppe: "Since using Adlerika the pimples are gone. My skin is smooth and glows with health. Adlerika washes BOTH bowels, and relieves constipation that so often aggravates a bad complexion. John S. Gibson Drugg Co."

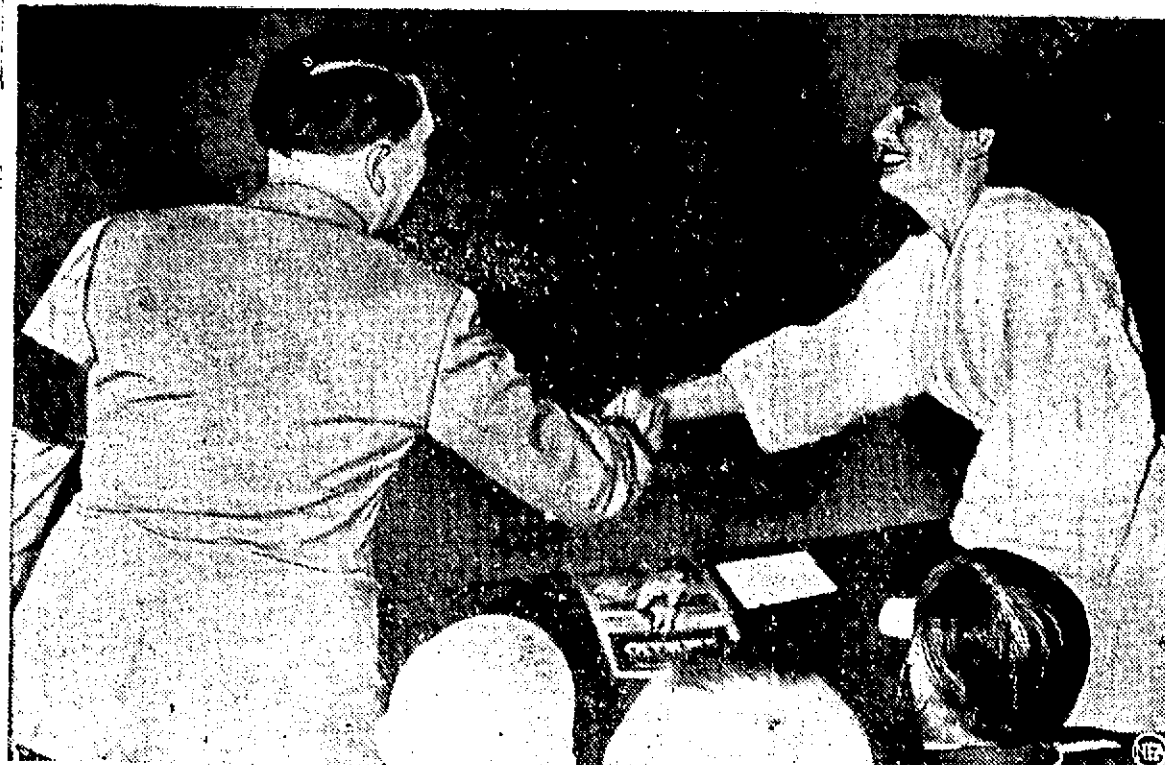

Sidney J. Williams, director, Public Safety Division, National Safety Council, said in a statement issued Tuesday in connection with the observance of National Tire Safety Week, May 14 to 21.

Sponsored by tire manufacturers, distributors and dealers, the campaign has received the endorsement of safety groups, state motor vehicle officials, and others throughout the country. Mr. Williams' statement was sent to A. L. Viles, president of the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, who heads the National Tire Safety Week campaign.

"It is possible to skid with a brand new tire," Mr. Williams declared, "and it is possible to avoid skidding with a perfectly smooth tire, but under given conditions there is more likelihood of skidding with a smooth tire than with one in which the tread pattern is still prominent. The difference does not necessarily occur on all kinds of roads, but it does occur on concrete or on other smooth pavements which are slippery from rain or ice."

"Worn out tires are also hazardous from the standpoint of blowouts. They may occur where the tread has been worn down so as to expose the fabric, or, more frequently, where the side walls of the tire have become cracked. Such a defect cannot be satisfactorily remedied by using a "shoe" inside the casing. A tire which is liable to blow out is really more hazardous than one which is smooth, because skidding can be avoided by careful driving, while a blowout may occur at any time if the tire is weak. An experienced driver can handle his car safely even with a blowout at high speed, but for most of us, blowouts usually lead to serious trouble."

Pollack Dinner
"Pollack" dinners and picnic lunches are favorite forms of recreation during the summer months in Hempstead county, and several such get-togethers are already planned.

During the month of August all Home Demonstration Clubs are planning picnics during the evening of their regular club day. Husbands and children are invited on these picnics.

Even such an informal affair as a picnic dinner must be well planned if everyone is to enjoy it, declares Miss Gertrude E. Conant, extension nutritionist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. Good manners are just as necessary on such occasions as they are in a home or on a more formal event, she adds.

If there are children present, she suggests that arrangements be made to serve them separately where they will not interfere with orderly procedure or the enjoyment of other people. The officers of the club or some other responsible individuals should see that guests are served first.

The food should be placed in orderly array so that people may help themselves quickly and pass on. Serving spoons or forks should be placed conveniently near each dish. "The most important 'Don't' is never a used fork or spoon into a dish that is expected to serve several people. That is a breach of manners that cannot be condoned," Miss Conant declares.

Another "don't" in the list of manners for community needs is given by Miss Conant. Don't take samples of every food on the table. Think of the people following and leave something for them. Good manners in the host analysis means being thoughtful and careful of other people's rights."

Live-at-Home Program
Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Robins of the Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration club have carried out a Live At Home

Program for their farm and for the home ever since they were married. They now have a 200 acre farm, free of debt, with a six room brick house, a barn and other good out buildings on it. Mrs. Robins tell the story as follows:

"During the thirty years of our married life we have practiced a Live At Home Program. Up to date we have not bought any feed for live stock and have never been without cured meat, lard, milk, butter, eggs, chickens or potatoes for family use. We take care of garden space for the family and feed acres for the live stock first and then plant what is left to cotton. We have never planted a cash crop to buy feed."

Our small dairy herd contributes a cash income. The year 1937 we cleared approximately $500 from our dairy cattle and a few pigs. The pigs and chickens are fed the skim milk, after the milk has been put through a cream separator. We have a Pure Herford Bull and a few Pure Bred Cows. Our chickens are Barred Rocks. We keep 50 to 60 hens and raise about 150 fliers each year. We have a year around garden and fill a canning budget. The three tenant families on the place are given garden spaces, sorghum and potato patches and pastures for as much as two cows."

There are three people in the Robins family. Mrs. Robins has been president of the Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration club, a leader in the Five Year Community Beautification program and this year is poultry demonstrator in the club.

Mrs. Eugene Goodlett of the Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration club, makes home improvements in rental houses because she says that she gets her money's worth while living at a place.

When Mrs. Goodlett moved into her present home she found all the floors and walls unfinished. The walls had holes large enough for a cat to go through. These holes in the walls were made rat proof by closing with sticks of stove wood and scrap lumber picked up about the place. Two of the four rooms were lined with building paper to make a smoother finish, then the walls were papered at a total cost of $2.60.

Mrs. Goodlett has a movable water system consisting of a tank, pipes and faucet which cost approximately $10. This can be moved from farm to farm.

A canning budget is filled for the family each year.

Mrs. Goodlett is vice president of her club and a former president of the county council.

The Kitchen

Home Demonstration club members in Hempstead county saved themselves hundreds of miles of walking when they arranged their kitchen this year. Some women walk 73 feet to make an apple pie, while others need to walk only 12 feet. The difference is all in the kitchen and the arrangement of the work units.

Mrs. H. O. Stuart of the Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration club, has a new kitchen made by walling in her back porch which is 81 feet by 22 feet. The work centers are very compact across the two long walls. Built in cabinets made by using two old kitchen cabinets with some additional lumber were built 16 feet across the outside wall, a sink was put under a window at the center of the cabinet space. Running water was made possible by the use of a 1100 gallon tank which was made from two oil tanks obtained at a nominal cost. The tank is supplied with water from the roof of the house. The kitchen has a small breakfast nook, refrigerator space, and a wood range. The kitchen has been made light by a glass door opening off the back between the cabinets and the porch, by a door opening on the side porch and with two drop windows in one end. Another feature which

"Safety" Teaching Urged for Schools

Drive Alertly, in Right Traffic Lane, and Use Arm Signals

The Arkansas State Highway Commission, through its Traffic Division, has suggested to school administrators of Arkansas that they give increased attention to enlarging their program of safety education during the next school term.

In the message to school superintendents and principals, H. D. Booth, Traffic Supervisor, said:

"Safety education is no fad. It has come to stay and will occupy an increasingly important part in the schools of Arkansas. We believe the school has a definite responsibility to make the kitchen more convenient is a built in table cabinet between the kitchen and the dining room which is used as a side board. Swing glass doors are above the cabinet, which can be kept open or closed as desired.

The most satisfactory kitchen is the rectangular one since pieces of equipment may be placed along opposite walls. Mrs. Ida A. Fenton, extension economist in household management, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, advises.

A "U" shaped kitchen is economical of effort, steps, and time. The preparation center, including the refrigerator, table, storage for knives, bowls, pans, the water supply, and garbage can is at the rear entrance. Here all preparation is done and the food is moved around to the cooking center, where there is the fuel supply, if wood is used, the stove, and storage for cooking utensils, pot covers, and seasonings. The serving table and storage for plates, bowls, cups, and other dishes which are filled in the kitchen are located next to the dining room door. A 10x12 room is an economical space for a "U" shaped kitchen, Mrs. Fenton said.

The cleaning up center is at the sink, and there should be stored the pans, cloths, towels, scouring and soap supplies for the cleaning up process. Here is also the garbage can since it was needed near the sink for receiving vegetable and fruit parings and waste while preparing the food for cooking.

Extension Service Circular No. 385, "Improving the Kitchen" shows a floor plan for a "U" shaped kitchen and also a plan for remodeling an old kitchen into a compact, efficient kitchen.

teach accident prevention, which is life conservation. We ask that your program of education for the next term include adequate provision for safety education at all grade levels, related to the various subjects and activities of the curriculum to which it quite naturally belongs. If possible, have some of your high school teachers prepare themselves in this field during the summer.

Mr. Booth also requested school administrators to emphasize safety to their pupils at every opportunity from now until the closing of the school term, in order that youthful drivers may be made aware of the seriousness of the traffic accident situation, and to enlist their cooperation through the summer vacation period in preventing traffic accidents. The following definite reminders and practices of safe driving were also quoted in the Highway Commission's letter to school administrators. They are equally important for adult drivers.

1. Be alert when driving.
2. Reduce speeds. Keep the car under control.
3. Observe all stop and caution signs and signals.
4. Give proper arm signals for right and left turns, slow, and stop. Never stop on pavement.
5. Drive carefully and in the proper lane.
6. Give car on right the right-of-way at intersections.
7. Be especially careful at night.
8. Refuse to ride with a drinking driver.
9. Maintain car in good condition.
10. Pedestrians: Use care; take no chances.

DON'T BUY ANY TIRE UNTIL YOU'VE READ THIS IMPARTIAL REPORT BY FAMOUS LABORATORY

BOTH regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three month period by an impartial testing laboratory. The results are as follows:

"NON-SKID"—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 10% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE"—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

"BLOW-OUT PROTECTION"—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown blew out or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed."
